Dear Dr. Lederberg,

I am extremely sorry not to have seen you in Madison, but the situation here was such that without a car I couldn't have gotten anywhere--and no one was in a car-lending mood.

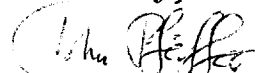

I shall be abroad from May through October, mainly to see people in connection with my book. Most of the time I shall be working at the Naples Zoological Station. I don't suppose you will be in New York before I leave, but I want very much to see you when I return. Meanwhile, if you have time, could you do me two favors: send me a few of your more general reprints, and let me know who you think I should see abroad.

I look forward to hearing from you and meeting you eventually.

Incidentally, my address by the time you get this note: P.O. Box 197, New Hope, Pa.

Sincerely,

John Pfeiffer
